LOCAL BREVITIES.

95-59: Saturday-Monday.

Probate Court will be in session next week, commencing Monday.

No. 601 was an hour late yesterday. There was a racket of some sort up the road some-

There was a very pleasant party of musicians at "Sylvan Lake" last Thursday evening. The invitations included some singers, and the sweet echoes around the water must have charmed even the nightingales.

An ice-cream festival at the Academy of Music Thursday evening, Aug. 9th, for the visiting her cousin, Mrs. P. R. Crisp, of our benefit of the Presbyterian church. If you want a dish of good cream, supplemented of the illness of her father. with excellent cake, etc., call around on the evening named.

A team receiving freight at the depot last at St. Paul, St. Charles county, Mo. Saturday took fright at a passing train and ran away. . A cooking-range in the wagon was badly damaged, after which the horses tore loose and ran down Main street as far as the post-office before they were stopped. The wagon was not damaged and no person was hurt.

The estoons of Ironton were closed last Suuday-as they always are on the first day of the week. The liquor dealers here are law-abiding, and their St. Louis brethren will do well to pattern after them. What's sauce for the goose ought to be sauce for the gander; and if it is a good thing to enforce the laws in the country, the city ought not be exempt from their operation.

An unusually pleasant party at the Arcadia House "surprised" Thos. A. Roberson last Saturday evening. It was his 24th birthday. Music, dancing, refreshments, etc., served to keep everybody in a good humor for several hours, when, heedful that Sunday was close at hand, the guests departed, the lights went out, and silence reigned where late was life and pleasure.

Bro. R. H. Jones, of the Malden Clipper, is sojourning in the beautiful Arcadia Valley. He called to see us, the other day, and we found aim an intelligent, wide-awake member of the fraternity. We think his matrimonial future is as yet unachieved; but, if such be the case, he will hardly get away from here without having first laid the Towl. foundation for a consummation so devoutly to be wished.

A. Roehry, Esq., returned from France last Wednesday night. His trip, going and coming, was without mishap and full of ing. So says a correspondent. pleasure. He spent a month in Alsace at his old home with his parents and friends, visited Paris, went into Switzerland, and altogether saw as much as possible of the Old World in the short time allotted him. Mr. Roehry was accompanied by Louis Giovanoni, formerly a resident of Ironton, and now living in St. Louis.

The Arcadia House and cottages are filled with summer visitors, and every available farm-house in the Valley's vicinity has its quota; yet not a day but inquirers after summer boarding are turned away disappointed because of lack of accommodations. One of these days some enterprising capitalist will come along and put up a big hotel and lots of neat cottages, and make a mint of money out of his venture. Then more than one person who now throws cold water on the project will declare that he told Mr. Beard claims the marriage was sarietly us so many moons before.

The trial of C. A. The teachers' Institute at Pilot Knob two weeks ago, ought by all means have been held at Ironten; but our school board says | Sunday. that under a strict construction of the law, the use of the schoolhouse could not be given the visiting teachers. Then we say the law ought to be changed, and that it is a damphool law that ought never have been put on the statute-books. It is right to bar out of public school houses all sorts of things which do not pertain to the schools; but a Teacher's Institute! Keeping that sort of a meeting out is something like the denying the use of a church building to a Quarterly Conference. Let the law be changed to accord with the dictates of ordinary "good horse sense."

Much is said now about enforcing the Sunday Law, with or against the sentiment of the people. People forget that there are two sentiments to be respected. Any law is against the sentiment of those people who find it to their interest to violate it. In looking over the names ot violaters of the law on Sunday last, we would judge that about ninety per cent. of them are either foreigners or of foreign parents. Persons coming lar size $1.00. from the monarchies of Europe have queer notions of personal liberty when they come here. Many seem ready to take charge of the country on first arrival, and if it be de-nied them, they talk of defiance. If the au-thorities in St. Louis are not too anxious for ection, the law will be enforced. But Mr. Gains, Route Agent of the Southern politicians are so accustomed to pandering to the viscious rather than the better ele-

A Letter from Belleview.

Having some private business to transact in the west end of Iron county, and wishing to attend the annual meeting of the Baptist Church at Mount Pleasant on the fourth Sabbath in July, I set out on the morning of the preceding Wednesday; and, after a hot and weary tramp, I found a home for the Mr. Mike Hotson is home for a few weeks, night in the pleasant family of Mr. Carroll Crocker, on the old Clayton farm. On the route for one mile stretch I saw but one man and a few birds and animals, among others one deer that came out of the Saltnetre Cave Hollow and passed over toward Clayton creek. I found Mr. Crocker battling man-Misses Carrie and Florence Soule, of Wash- fully against Universalism and Roman Catholicism, in regard to the preaching to the spirits in prison. I lifted him out, and will in the near future furnish him a written arant visit at her daughter's, Mrs. William gument which will enable him to hold the fort. At noon on Thursday I reached Mr. Mr. Towl's family is entertaining Miss Charles K. Henderson's, where I rested during the afternoon and night. On Friday I called on Mr. Joseph Strickland and Mr. Nelson Hawk, spending the day very pleasantly. At Mr. Strickland's I met Mr. Patterson, a teacher from Washington county. He is a very affable young gentleman. I had been told that he held a teacher's certificate equal to mine. On a showing of hands, he ranted to speedily care Burns, Bruises, Cuts, Ulcers, Salt Rheum, Fever Sores, Caneers, Piles, Chilblains, Corns, Tetter, Chapped Hands, and all Skin Eruptions; guaranteed abuse, hardship and ill treatment to which I to cure in every instance, or money refund-ed. On Thursday he found a bee tree near his house. On Friday his neighbors assembled, bringing an outfit of buckets and stomachs sufficient to have carried off the tree. A few blows of the ax brought down the tree, and the results were a very small stock of comb, about one spoonful of honey and a handful of young bees. But Mr. Strickland housed the workers, and at last accounts they were doing well. On Saturday I went to Mount Pleasant Church. By the request of the preaching brethren I discussed the subject of "Christian Ambition," showing what the true Christian desired to know, to do and to be. My remarks were listened to with very courteons and respectful attention. As the immediate neighborhood of the church was crowded with visitors and some of my business was west of the ridge, on Saturday evening I called on my young friends, Adam and Edward Henderson, and added to the list of my acquaint ances Messrs. Fimberson and Rea, who are much above the average in intelligence. On Sabbath morning, by invitation, I preached on the "Communion of Saints" to the largest assemblage of people ever gathered at that church. The good order could scarcely be surpassed. That congregation is now en-fruit abundant and good. I saw a triumph of mechanical ingenuity in the way of repairs. Elder John R. Adams had a mowing machine, the large wheel of which broke into several pieces. He repaired it with braces, blocks and hickory bark, until the machine is better than new: for he tried to take it apart in order to put in a new wheel, but he had forgotten the combination, and so failed, and the machine will probably now be like "the Deacon's wonderful one-hoss shay." Some interesting facts in connection with the late frost were collected.

During my absence Dr. McKinney and his wife went down with cholera, reaching the collapsed stage; but the skill of Dr. Haley raised them. The test was a severe one, but he was adequate to meet it.

If Black river is ahead in mechanical skill Belleview leads in zoology. The McKinney Bros. have among their sheep a wether that has teats like those of a young cow, and gives milk. I only report facts as far as developed. When he gives birth to a lamb the public will be notified through the REGIS-
